LIST OF ACCEPTED PAPERS

Alison Hicks. The theory of mitigating risk: transition and information literacy practices

Sally Irvine-Smith. Representation, mediation and agency: examining the role of the artefacts of decision-making

John Budd and Kristine Stewart. A Phenomenological Scheme for Information Organization

Claudio Gnoli. Levels of information and LIS as a science of mentefacts

Tove Faber Frandsen, Rasmus Højbjerg Jacobsen, Jeppe Nicolaisen and Jakob Ousager. Pressure to publish: A Bibliometric Study of PhD-Students (1993-2009)

Helena Hollis. Critical thinking and information literacy: Different concepts, same conceptions.

Tzipi Cooper, Noa Aharony and Judit Bar-Ilan. Gender differences in four academic disciplines at Israeli universities

Michael Olsson and Joacim Hansson. Embodiment, Information Practices and Documentation: a study of Mid-Life Martial Artists

Jenny Bronstein, Noa Aharony, Ina Fourie, Heidi Julien and Amy Vanscoy. The LIS Professions: Building on the Past to Shape the Future

Michael Widdersheim and Masanori Koizumi. Research foundations related to the public sphere and public libraries

Jeppe Nicolaisen. Bibliographic References as Adaptive Traits

Ryan Shaw. The Missing Profession

Frances Hultgren. Including the youngest: developing libraries as participative spaces for babies and toddlers

Eystein Gullbekk. What can we make of our interviews? A discussion of qualitative data in a study on interdisciplinary information practice

Maja Krtalić and Hana Marčetić. Transformative power of information: managing your personal history and culture

Gunilla Widén, Annemaree Lloyd, Karen Fisher and Nadia Caidi. Integration, resettlement and repatriation. Revisiting the information landscapes of refugees
Aira Huttunen, Lottamari Kähkönen, Heidi Enwald and Terttu Kortelainen. Embodied cognition and information experiences of transgender people

Leanne Bowler, Tom Akiva, Sharon Colvin and Annie McNamara. Facilitation in Library Makerspaces: A Prototype for a Professional Development Model

J. Tuomas Harviainen and Sanna Kumpulainen. Service Design for Information Search Tasks

Simon Burnett and Annemaree Lloyd. The road not taken - locating desires lines across information landscapes

Isto Huvila, Heidi Enwald, Noora Hirvonen and Kristina Eriksson-Backa. The concept of usefulness in library and information science research

Isto Huvila. Rethinking context in information research: bounded versus centred sets

Hilary Yerbury, Simon Darcy and Nina Burridge. Accessing Information: the digital and social capital of students with disability

Lisa Engström and Johanna Rivano Eckerdal. Public libraries as promoters of social sustainability?

Kathleen Burnett and Gary Burnett. Information Domains, Information Ethics

Sarah Polkinghorne and Lisa M. Given. What is “holistic” research in library and information science?

Muhaimin Karim, Gunilla Widén and Jannica Heinström. Information Avoidance among youth in Europe

Ola Pilerot and Hanna Maurin Söderholm. A conceptual framework for investigating documentary practices in prehospital emergency care

Urbano Reviglio. Deconstructing the Concept of Artificial Serendipity: Brief History and Future Perspectives of Serendipity in Digital Environments

Amy Vanscoy. Conceptualizing Reference and Information Service Using Q Methodology

Lai Ma. From Metrics to Representation: The Flattened Self in Citation Databases

Noora Hirvonen and Anna-Maija Huhta. Employing nexus analysis in investigating information literacy

Deborah Hicks. Understanding Identity in Information Behaviour Research: A Conceptual Analysis
Sonja Špiranec, Denis Kos and Michael George. Searching for Critical Dimensions in Data Literacy

Trine Schreiber. Examining documents as material manifestation of organisational practices

Pia Borlund and Nils Pharo. A need for information on information needs

Deborah Lee. The classification of musical transformation: a conceptual approach to the knowledge organization of musical arrangements

Jela Steinerova. The societal impact of information behaviour research on the information environment

Ragnar Audunson, Cicilie Fagerlid, Erik Henningsen, Håkon Larsen, Henrik Jochumsen and Karsten Schuldt. Libraries, Archives and Museums as Democratic Public Spaces

Maija-Leena Huotari, Sanna Tuomela and Anna Suorsa. Conceptualizing multidisciplinary interaction by Gadamerian play for creating transdisciplinary knowledge

Jutta Haider and Olof Sundin. The materiality and fragmentation of facts in contemporary society: infrastructural meaning-making and new demands on information literacy

Dan Albertson. Comparing Twitter Activity from Different LIS Conferences: Current Observations and Future Research Directions

Jutta Haider, Lucia Cedeira Serantes, Elisabeth Davies, Björn Hammarfelt, Jenna Hartel, Alison Hicks, Veronica Johansson, Pamela McKenzie and Paulette Rothbauer. About time: Re-thinking information through the lens of time and temporality. A conversation café.

Anna Suorsa and Rauli Svento. Embodied and dialogical nature of human beings shaping organizational knowledge creation: Developing scientific knowledge for a Virtual Power Plant

David Bawden and Lyn Robinson. "Essentially made of information": concepts and implications of informational privacy

Bo Skøtt. Newcomers at the Library: A LIS-perspective on the integration of new citizens through public libraries

Ragnar Audunson, Hans Christoph Hobohm and Mate Toth. ALM in the public sphere: How do archivists, librarians and museum professionals conceive the respective roles of their institutions in the public sphere?

Jenna Hartel. Turn, Turn, Turn
Ronald Day and Robert Montoya. ‘What is (a) Disease?’: Classing Diseases and its Consequences

Ibekwe-Sanjuan Fidélia and Loubere Lucie. Appropriation of Social Sciences and Humanities Literature in the public arena

Martin Thellefsen. The semiotics of knowledge organization or; why are KOS meaningful?

Fidelia Ibekwe-Sanjuan, Tatjana Tatjana Aparac and Ernest Abadal. The quest for umbrella terms in LIS. Tracking the paternity of informatology and informatics.

Joacim Hansson. Recognising the other through promotion of reading, collection development and communal collaboration: rural public libraries in the far-north of Sweden and their relation to the indigenous Sámi population.

Andrea Grkinić and Maja Jokić. Research Orientation and Development of Information and Communication Sciences in Croatia

Anna Mierzecka, Jacek Wasilewski and Małgorzata Kisilowska. Cognitive authority, emotions and information quality evaluations

Anna Maria Tammaro and Primoz Juznic. Workshop “Conceptions of LIS profession and education globally: an IFLA study”

Olle Sköld. Integrating Paradata into Videogame-Preservation Methods

Sabina Cisek and Monika Krakowska. The diary method and analysis of student’s mental representations of information spaces as the research approach in information behavior research

Frances Ryan, Hazel Hall, Peter Cruickshank and Alistair Lawson. Build, manage and evaluate: information practices and personal reputations on social media platforms

Trond Aalberg. The impact of new bibliographic models on the search experience

Andreas Vårheim, Roswitha Skare and Noah Lenstra. Digital and institutional convergence in the LAM sector: a contribution towards a conceptual framework

Martin Nord. The Ethics of Documents in Relationships: The United Church of Canada and Its Reconciliation Documents

Elliott Hauser. Algorithms and Prolepsis: The projection of documents onto everything